REISS-DAVIS CHILD STUDY CENTER & INSTITUTE'S TRAINING PROGRAMS

The Reiss-Davis Child Study Center's Reiss-Davis Institute for doctoral, postdoctoral and postgraduate studies was established to address the need for highly qualified mental health professionals in Los Angeles, across the country and around the world. Through our doctoral program, students learn to meet the diagnostic and therapeutic needs of a myriad of young people already in crisis. Doctoral students learn to do psychological research and are encouraged to explore evidenced-based projects and studies to further the field of neurobiological, psychodynamic developmental work with children and adolescents. Students also have the opportunity to learn about psychological diagnostic testing assessment of young people to help establish what each young client may need for an appropriate mental, emotional and educational plan of intervention.

THE REISS-DAVIS CHILD STUDY CENTER & INSTITUTE'S TRAINING PROGRAMS INCLUDE

- The Two Year Postdoctoral/Postgraduate Clinical Fellowship
- The Two Year Postdoctoral/ Postgraduate Psychoeducational Fellowship

A 60 YEAR HISTORY OF TRAINING MENTAL HEALTH PROFESSIONALS

Vista Del Mar's The Reiss-Davis Child Study Center and Institute has had over a half-century of experience training psychologists and other mental health practitioners in the field of child-adolescent mental health through its post-doctoral and post-graduate programs. Reiss-Davis's merger with The Graduate Center for Child Development and Psychotherapy, about 9 years ago, allowed it to expand its training programs to offer a doctoral program leading to a Psy.D. in Clinical Child Psychology.

INNOVATIVE PSY.D. PROGRAM

Reiss-Davis offers a more streamlined doctoral program, one that is especially designed for the busy clinical social worker, marriage and family therapist, educational therapist and clinical professional counselor already licensed in his or her profession who would like to get a doctoral degree in clinical child psychology from a neuro-psycho-bio-social psychodynamic perspective.
